

This Week in K-4

March 5, 2010

We are working in our reading groups, reviewing blend sounds and practicing sounding out words. We are continuing to work on numbers 10-19.

Next Tuesday is casual picture day. You may send your child in a favorite outfit; uniforms will not be required that day. Please return the form requesting the pose you wish for your child. There is no payment due; you will be able to select pictures from the proofs.

Our Bible lessons this week were about when Jesus calmed the storm, and when Peter walked on the water with Jesus. We learned not to be afraid because Jesus is always with us.

The Spaghetti dinner is quickly approaching I hope that everyone is planning on supporting this event. Please remember to send in the items requested from our class. We need lots of helpers and the PTF will be calling and asking for specific needs, and of course we need your ticket sales! If you have not earned your 10 hours of volunteer service to the school this is a great way to do so. This will be a sit down dinner and there will be entertainment during dessert so please don't miss this very special event.

We had to delay our computer lab because of my illness but we should be able to start computers this coming Monday. We will visit the lab once a week for about a half hour and use an online program and a Reader Rabbit program provided by the school.

In celebration of the Easter holiday I would like to have an Easter Breakfast for the children on Thursday, March 25th. We will also have an Easter egg hunt that morning. I will have a sign-up for needed items and each child will need to send in 12 plastic Easter eggs (filled) for our hunt. It would be nice to have a few parents to help out that morning as well. I will post the sign-up sometime next week.

The 10th grade class is selling Colonial Christian School (Christian) t-shirts. I have samples in the classroom. They are $12/$! 4 depending on the design and can be ordered in any size. These will be perfect for Christian t-shirt and jeans day. Please let me know as soon as possible if you would like to order one.
